

Merrill Perspectives Podcast

HOST BIO: Candace Browning

is head of BofA Merrill Lynch Global Research, a group that provides clients and employees of Bank of America Merrill Lynch and Merrill Lynch Wealth Management with top-quality investment insights and ideas, industry analysis and company overviews.

The BofA Merrill Lynch Global Research division has more than 630 analysts, with locations throughout the world, who provide recommendations on approximately 3,100 stocks and 1,000 credits globally, as well as economic forecasts for 55 countries, forecasts for 37 commodities and recommendations on 47 currencies. The division was named Institutional Investor magazine's Top Global Research Firm for six consecutive years and ranked second in 2017 and 2018.

From February 2003 to November 2008, Candace served as head of the Global Research Securities and Economics group at Merrill Lynch. She previously served as director of Equity Research for the Americas region, with responsibility for all research coverage in Canada, the United States and Latin America. Before joining research management, Candace covered the airline industry in the United States. Institutional Investor has listed her on its all-star analyst survey for 17 consecutive years.

Candace was named as one of the Top 25 Most Powerful Women in Finance by American Banker for the past eight years. She holds an MBA in marketing from Columbia University and a bachelor's degree in history from Brandeis University.